Summary: According to industry sources, E Mart (the leading hypermarket grocery retailer in Korea) is planning to close down all of its 6 stores in China within this year. E Mart entered into China in 1997 and once operated as many as 27 stores. However, E Mart saw a significant loss over the years in China and reduced its presence down to the current 6 stores.

Retail Industry Stages Upscale Sales Promotions Targeting Golden Week in May

<http://www.hankyung.com/news/app/newsview.php?aid=2017042312131>

Summary: The first week of coming May is named as "Golden Week" as it has three national holidays: Labor Day (May 1), Buddha's Birth Day (May 3), and Children's Day (May 5). It is likely that consumer spending during the week will surge. As a result, the entire retail industry in Korea has planned for aggressive sales promotions under the theme of Golden Week. For example, Lotte Group is scheduled to launch 'Lotte Play Festa' event in all of its retail outlets, including Lotte Department Store, Lotte Mart, and Lotte Super. During the event, consumers will find heavy price discounts on related products together with various cultural and amusement programs in the store.

E Mart to Close A Dozen Stores

<http://news.donga.com/3/all/20170416/83890489/1>

Summary: E Mart, the leading hypermarket grocery store chain in Korea, is reportedly in the process of closing about a dozen stores within this year. Under the plan, E Mart Jangan store in Seoul ended operation on March 31. E Mart commented that some of its stores face tough competition from both conventional and on-line competitors so it has come to a decision to close those under-performing stores. E Mart pointed out that this will help divert more of its resources to new growth areas such as "No Brand" private label business, warehouse discount store business, and on-line e-commerce. During the first quarter this year, E Mart saw 27.3 percent and 30.6 percent sales growth in its warehouse discount store business (Traders) and e-commerce business respectively. On the other hand, sales of conventional E Mart stores saw only 1.8 percent growth.
